Trauma Verification, Review, and Consultation (VRC) Program Overview

The VRC Program is designed to help hospitals evaluate and improve trauma care as well as provide objective, external review of institutional capability and performance. This is accomplished by a site review of the hospital by a peer review team. The team assesses the hospital's commitment, readiness, resources, policies, patient care, performance improvement, and other program features. Each hospital then receives a detailed report outlining their compliance with the standards outlined in the Resources for Optimal Care of the Injured Patient.
